Located in Hancock County, KY on the Buck Powers Road about .2 of a mile north of Highway 144. The intersection of these two roads, known as Arrington Corner, is 1.8 miles east of Highway 69 and 1.6 miles west of Patesville.

According to the records of the Blackford Baptist Association the Bethlehem Church was organized in 1842. On 16 March 1848 Minor E. Pate, & his wife Rebecca, donated one acre of land (transferred for $1.00) to Thomas Hale & Elias Lyons, “trustees for the United Baptist Church called Bethlehem” (Hancock County Deed Book 4, pp26-27). Three years later Minor E. Pate donated another acre to Elias Lyons & Thomas Hale, trustees of the United Baptist, David Willis & John Black, trustees on the part of the Presbyterians, and William Brown & Abraham Sanders, trustees on behalf of the Methodist-Episcopal Church South, and their successors. The deed specified that this acre was to be used jointly for the benefit of all three churches (Hancock County Deed Book 5, pp161-162). This lot was described as being on the south side of “the Bethlehem meeting house lot”.

Both acres donated by Minor E. Pate (1809-1875) were part of a 126-acre tract on Blackford Creek that he had purchased from William W. Oglesby in 1832 (Hancock County Deed Book 1, p118). Pate owned in all 1584 ½ acres that lay between the Bethlehem Church and the town of Patesville. This town had been named for his father, William Pate (1775-1853), who settled there about 1809. William Pate operated an inn on the old Yellow Banks Hardinsburg Road, a little east of where Patesville is today. On 1 April 1813 William Pate was appointed postmaster at Patesville. This was the first post office established in the territory that became Hancock County. On an 1818 map of Kentucky Patesville is the only town plotted in the area that in 1829 became Hancock County. Numerous sources penned in the last half-century mistakenly state that the town was named for William Minor Pate (an example of this error is the article “New historical marker recalls Patesville’s past”, Hancock Clarion, Hawesville, KY, 13 April 2000, p1A). The source for this error is a quote of local historian Miss Lillie Pulliam (1893-1983), who erroneously combined father and son, one of whom lived on the east side of Patesville and the other on the west side. Minor Pate, named for an uncle, was a child of about four when the hamlet was christened.

Minor E. Pate in 1872 traded all of his remaining land (1111 acres) to James Miller in exchange for 880 acres in the state of Kansas (Hancock County Deed Book 16, p375). The deed notes that this was minus two acres he had sold to the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches and ¼ acre used as a graveyard. The graveyard alluded to is not the Bethlehem Cemetery. It refers to what in subsequent years came to be referred to as the Baker Cemetery, named after a later landowner. Prior to this 1872 deed Minor E. Pate had at least three family members buried in the Baker graveyard – his daughter, Emma Lightfoot, was buried there in 1870 and two of her infant children were interred there in 1868. The Baker Cemetery, just outside of Patesville, later became a community cemetery for the town. Samuel J. Baker (1838-1931) according to his obituary moved to the Minor E. Pate farm in 1874 (Hancock Clarion, 27 March 1931, p1). James Miller deeded four hundred acres on which Minor Pate had lived to Baker on 24 May 1875. The deed stated Baker was already residing on the land, he and Miller having exchanged lands on 10 December 1873 (Hancock County Deed Book 18, p144). The old Baker home, now abandoned still stands on the north side of 144 on the west side of Patesville. The Baker Cemetery is on a hill in behind the house.

James Miller on 31 March 1879 sold 1- $\frac{3}{4}$  acres to George W. Brown & Isaac P. Moorman, trustees of the Bethlehem Baptist Church, for \$28.00 (Hancock County Deed Book 19, pp419-420). It was on the west side of the Hawesville & Hartford Road. This road is now known as the Buck Powers Road. At this time it was the main north-south thoroughfare through the central section of the county. It was still the main road at the time of a 1926 map. With the construction of Highway 69 it lost its status as a major road. The 1- $\frac{3}{4}$  acres was also described as being on the south line of the lot that the Bethlehem Church was located on. This acreage included the acre that Minor Pate had previously donated to the Baptists, Methodists & Presbyterians. The Bethlehem Cemetery is now located on this land deeded in 1879 to the Church. Apparently a short time prior to the recording of this deed the ground had begun to be used for burials. The oldest monument in the cemetery is for Hannah A., an infant daughter of John & E. Buck, who died on 15 April 1877.

For the first 35 years of its existence the Bethlehem Church was part of the Goshen Baptist Association. In 1856 the annual conference of this association was held at the Bethlehem Church. In 1877 Bethlehem, was one of 14 churches that were founding members of the Blackford Baptist Association. In Spencer's History of Kentucky Baptists (c1885, p645) it is stated that the Blackford Association "was constituted at Bethlehem meeting house in Hancock County, on the 30th of November, 1877". In the "Minutes of the First Session of the Blackford Association" (1877, p8) the following was recorded about the Bethlehem Church: pastor, Rev. Robert T. Bruner; clerk, Hardin D. Brown; membership 142; constituted in 1842. In addition to its first session one other annual conference of the Blackford Baptist Association was held at the Bethlehem Church, it convened there in 1915.

Rev. Wendell H. Rone in his History of the Union Baptist Church (1985, p33) writes that the Bethlehem Church "reported last to the Association in 1957, and in the 1958 annual was reported as disbanded, and its last 25 members lettered out to other churches. The cemetery is still maintained." The church had a life span of one hundred and fifteen years (1842-1957). Rev. Ezra D. Meador (1905-1991) served as the final pastor of the church, 1952-1957.

At this writing Virgil K. Pulliam is the caretaker of the Bethlehem Cemetery. The Pulliam family has taken care of the cemetery for many years. He had succeeded his parents, Mr. & Mrs. Peyton Pulliam, in this role. Mr. Pulliam said that the congregation first disbanded about 1942, when the frame church building burned.

Breckinridge News, Cloverport, KY, Wednesday, 1 April 1942, p8:

OLD CHURCH DESTROYED BY FIRE LAST WEEK

The Bethlehem Baptist Church, one of the oldest churches in Hancock county, was destroyed by fire on Thursday of last week. The building had stood there for almost a century but had been kept in splendid repair and was a neat, attractive house of worship. The fire, which destroyed this well known country church, spread from a brush fire. Neighbors living near the church could not control the flames. Members of the congregation had planned to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the church in the early summer of this year.

In 1946 the church was reorganized. Virgil K. Pulliam said his cousin, Lillie Pulliam (1893-1983), paid for the construction of a block building on the site of the old church. About the same time the cemetery lot was added to when Marie Flowers donated a parcel at the south end of the cemetery. The church disbanded for a final time in 1957. Revivals and funerals continued to be held in the church building for several years. About 1961 the church's records, then in the possession of John Adkins, were lost when his home in Hawesville burned.

When I first visited the Bethlehem Church in 1980 the church building was still standing. During the following decade the roof of the building caved in. I copied the data from the grave markers in the Cemetery on September 12 & 25, 1986. I then compared my list with two prior listings of the cemetery. One of the listings had been done in 1973 and published in the book Hancock County, Kentucky Cemeteries, Volume 1 (West-Central Kentucky Family Research Association, Owensboro, KY, 1974, pp16-22) and the other by Daniel Lynn Bolin was published in 1974 in the book, Church Cemeteries of Meade, Breckinridge, and Hancock Counties.(Vol.III, pp72-78). I noted any differences between the three listings and then on 3 March 1989 I rechecked these monuments in the cemetery. In the cases that were not immediately obvious I checked original primary sources to establish what was correct. The 1973 listing was found to contain many inaccuracies – in fact more than 80 monuments were found to have errors in interpretation of either the dates or spelling of names. The 1974 listing had about a fourth less errors but 13 monuments were found to have been missed. On 13 September 1999 I obtained from the cemetery’s caretaker, Virgil K. Pulliam, a listing of the monuments he had compiled. We had 57 differences between our listings. The same day I returned to the cemetery and rechecked the monuments in question. After making this comparison I found that I had made 5 errors, on 47 of the other differences I determined that my original interpretation was correct, and the 5 other monuments were found to be beyond reading. The following listing of the monuments in the Bethlehem Cemetery is followed by a list of 75 others who are buried in unmarked graves in the cemetery.

Unmarked Graves

Many are buried in unmarked graves at the Bethlehem Cemetery. The following 83 individuals were buried here but no markers could be found for them. Sources verifying place of burial are listed in brackets on line below each individual's name. These include Kentucky death certificates (all certificates in the years of 1911-1950 for Hancock, Daviess & Ohio Counties were checked), obituaries in the Hawesville or Owensboro newspapers, or interview of a relative. I believe there are probably as many others, if not more, who are buried here in unmarked graves that were not identified. There are several who have family members buried here that I suspicion were also buried here in unmarked graves. They, however, were not listed here since no proof was found.
