Jerry Long

The following is from the book, Ohio County. Kentucky Obituary Index (1873-1899), by Jerry Long (Utica, KY: McDowell Publications, 2009); on the cover of the book (preceding page) is painting, "Humble Valley Home", by Ohio County artist, Mary Jo White, printed courtesy of David Crume, prints available at Crume Picture Framing, 1123 S. Main Street, Hartford, KY 42347, phone 270-298-9145):

This volume indexes the obituaries and death notices found in the newspapers of Ohio County, Kentucky for the years of 1873-1899. Other volumes of this series index the death notices found for the periods of 1900-1919 and 1920-1980. Approximately 39,000 deaths are chronicled in the three volumes of this series.

Despite not being a native of Ohio County I have many ties to the county. My father was born there and growing up I spent time on my grandparent's Ohio County farm. I became a student of the county's history when I embarked on a journey into genealogy in 1979. I have previously published several sources on Ohio County, including the 1810 to 1840 censuses, numerous cemetery listings and articles on various families of the county. I commenced systematically listing the county's death notices when I began searching the newspapers for the death of my great-great-grandmother. I never found that notice but I did learn a wealth of information about numerous other relatives and the history of the county.

I believe this represents a true history of Ohio County since individuals comprise the fabric of history. Newspapers are a time capsule and possibly are our most insightful portrait into history. I first began compiling this index in 1984. The Ohio County Public Library permitted me to check out their original bound volumes and microfilms of their newspapers and take them to the Kentucky Room of the Daviess County Public Library. I also borrowed other microfilms from the University of Kentucky and viewed them on my home reader. I went through the issues slowly page by page and year by year. I later rechecked many of the older years with the morgue of county newspaper files at the Ohio County Times-News office in Hartford.

While working with the old newspapers I was instrumental in the microfilming of seven years of the "Hartford Herald" (1875-1880 & 1885) that had never been available to the public. These first years of the "Herald" had been retained by the newspaper's original owners and were passed down through the Barrett family. In 1991 I visited Mrs. Lyman (Elizabeth) Barrett, who then had these original years and entreated her to preserve these valuable files by allowing them to be microfilmed. She subsequently donated them to the University of Kentucky, who microfilmed them and made them available to other repositories. I also came close to succeeding in having the first four years of the Beaver Dam newspaper, "Ohio County Messenger" (1930-1933) microfilmed for the first time. These four years were available only at the "Ohio County Times-News" office in Hartford. The owner of the newspaper allowed me to take them to the University of Kentucky for microfilming. When I first published my "Ohio County Obituary Index 1920-1980" in 2004 I announced that these years where soon to be microfilmed. However, soon after I published this the microfilming was suspended due to funding. I returned the newspapers to their owners and as of this printing they still have not been filmed.

Deaths Indexed

All deaths in Western Kentucky or Southern Indiana were indexed. Individuals who died in other locations were indexed if it was stated (or if it was known) that they were former residents of the above areas or if they had relatives there. Any and all items suggesting a death in the region were indexed. These included not only obituaries and death notices but also funeral notices, memorials, thank you notices, resolutions of respect, community items, erection of grave markers, references to attendance at funerals, accumulative lists of deaths over a period for members of a particular group (such as veterans or fraternities), decoration of graves on holidays and court or legal notices (such as recording of wills, estate settlements or suits, and appointments of administrators or executors). Persons who were mistakenly reported to have died or reported to be near death were also indexed; in these cases a note was added to the comments explaining.

Format – Abstract

Abstracts include all vital and biographical data about that person found in the original article(s) – date & place of death, age (20-3-5 = 20 years, 3 months & 5 days), birth date & place, cause of death, marital status, survivors or any relatives named, cemetery where buried, data on military service, occupations, places of employment, residences, former residences, military service, deceased family members, any data on family, marriage or when moved to location, offices held, memberships and accomplishments and other biographical data. African Americans if indicated are designated by (Black). If an abstract is preceded by a name of a city or community that item appeared in a community column for that place.

An effort was made to integrate all items for the same person. New items related to a particular death were not indexed separately but were added to the first entry made for that person. Many references to other newspaper articles about the individual or immediate members of his family that both precede and follow a death have been added to the abstracts. These additional items follow the obituary abstract and are preceded by "See also". These include a source code for the newspaper title (see list below), page number, section of issue if there are multiple sections and a brief abstract of any additional data. For example "OCN" 10-04-1942 p2C = "Ohio County News" 4 October 1942 page 2 of section C. Enclosed in brackets at the very end of many abstracts are references to death notice(s) about the same person that appeared in the Owensboro newspapers. These appear as [06-05-1894 "OM".] If the Owensboro items include additional data not found in the Ohio County newspapers they will appear as [04-07-1875 "OMO": Age 52. Resided Taylor Field.]

Word of Caution

Like all indexing one should not assume that it is absolutely correct. From my experience of studying newspapers I have found that they have numerous errors, especially the older ones. In fact I would estimate that as many as half of the older obituaries contain some error. For this index several gross misspellings of surnames (or multiple spellings reported for the same name) were changed to what was known or found to be correct. This was done so that they could be more readily located. All other information cited in the obituaries, however, is indexed as is. Occasionally if some error in the information, such as burial place, was known or proven by some other source, an accompanying note of explanation has been added. Frequently different newspaper items give inconsistent data or have information that sometimes contradicts other sources such as a gravestone or a family bible. In these cases one can only make an educated decision on the basis of the preponderance of evidence.

One needs to keep in mind that errors can also be made by the person doing the indexing. Since a name is not found in the index do not assume that no item is there. Errors are inevitable especially where the item is very small and there are very badly faded pages. Great time and care was done in the indexing. I believe that because of this my error rate is minimal and not many were missed. If you discover any that were missed in this index please let me know and I will add them to the database.

Possibly the greatest potential for error is the interpretation of the date of death. At times an item, especially community columns, may be a delayed notice and it is difficult to be certain what date is meant. For example when it says a person died last Saturday generally it means the Saturday of the past week but occasionally it may be a Saturday a week or two ago. I used the rule that if it was a separate item or if a community column was dated and it was stated that the death occurred on a certain weekday then the death date could be calculated and entered. Separate obituaries, articles or items reported in the locals generally were published shortly after a death and thus calculations should usually be accurate. However, if a community column was undated this rule cannot always be followed. Most entries that were confusing I tried to verify by another source and if I could not determine the exact day of death I entered that the person died on whatever weekday that was given. Another frequent source of error is the use of the phrase "in the __th year of his age". Many interpret in the 50th year of age to mean that the person is 50 years old. However, the person has not yet reached the age of the number cited and his actual age would be one less. Thus a person in the 50th year of his age has started his 50th year but he is still 49 years old. Keep in mind that funerals did not always immediately follow a death. In olden times funerals may have been months later.

07-21-1897 H1 - Interesting Genealogy : Robertson – Landrum

In a recent issue some one asked if Kate Landrum, of Virginia, married Le Roy Robertson. I think they came from Culpeper county. I will give what information I possess. Kate Landrum's first husband was Le Roy Robertson. Can not give all the names of the children by this marriage. Those I know are as follows: William P., Charles Frederic, Francis Rogers, Harriet, Emma, Margaret and one other daughter, who married Summers Dean, of Breckinridge county, forgot her name. William P. Robertson married Sallie Moorman, of Breckinridge county, had a large family of boys and girls. Can't give all their names. His son, Charles, married Lizzie Green, of Louisville, half sister of ex-Assistant Auditor Charles Green. Charles F., second son of Kate L. & L. R. Robertson married Araminta Nichols, of Muhlenberg county. Had a large family, most of whom are still in that county. One son, Randolph Robertson, is a physician living in Texas. Francis Rodgers – better known as Frank – father of the writer of this sketch – was married twice. His first wife was the widow of James Wickliffe. His only child by her was Albert Robertson, now of Sibley, Jackson county, Mo. This Mrs. Wickliffe, who afterwards married my father, was a Miss Nichols, sister of Charles F. Robertson's wife. Frank Robertson's second wife was Cornelia Peyton, daughter of Val Peyton, and niece of Dr. Sam O. Peyton, of Hartford, Ky. They had a large family of children. A son, Le Roy Robertson, lives in Decatur, Ala. One daughter lives in this city, the rest that are living are in Ohio county, Ky. All of Kate Landrum's children by her first husband are dead. Harriet Robertson married a Mr. Phipps, of Hartford. Their children are still living there. Emma Robertson married Mr. O'Connor. Don't know where the children are. Margaret R. married Marion Humphrey, of Evansville, Ind. He had Marion, Jr. and Horace; don't know names of others. One of Charles F. Robertson's daughters-in-law, the widow of James Robertson, who was a Miss Eliza South, of Frankfort, Ky., is living in Louisville with her children. Kate Landrum-Robertson's second husband was a Mr. Payne. They had several children; can't give all their names. One daughter married Mr. Cox, of Brandenberg. One son married a Miss Smith, now living at Fordsville, Ky. My father and mother could trace their ancestry back to the immigrant. My father said his father was a descendant of the Randolphs, of Roanoke. This was a family name. William P. Robertson's family are living mostly in Breckinridge county. All three of his daughters married Moormans. His son, Bob Robertson, married Emma Bishop, of Elizabethtown. Charles F. Robertson's three daughters died. Kate Landrum had several brothers and sisters. They were Thomas, Isham, Frank and James Landrum. One sister, Henrietta, married Brooksie Austin, of McLean county. One of her daughters is the wife of Bishop J. S. Coleman, of Hartford, KY., the other is a widow, Mrs. Mary Skillern, of Calhoun, Ky. Thomas Landrum's first wife was Elizabeth Fields, of Owensboro, Ky., his second wife was Julia Barbee, of Bardstown; their children are living in McLean county. One daughter by the first wife is living in Florida. Don't know who Frank, Isham and James Landrum married. One of Frank Landrum's daughters married a Mr. Griffiths, of Owensboro. One of his grandsons is Frank L. Felix, of THE HARTFORD HERALD. Of James Landrum's daughters one married a McCullough, another a Grundy, another a Jackson. One of Frank Landrum's daughters married a Hart, another a Davidson. Would like to get more information about the family. The descendants of Kate Landrum-Robertson-Payne and Le Roy Robertson are scattered all over the South; many of them in Kentucky. The daughter who married Summers Dean has children and grandchildren in Owensboro, Ky. One of her grandsons, J. Allan Dean, was recently married to Miss Miller, of that city. They were prominent citizens of Breckinridge county. I don't know the dates of any marriages. My father died October 17th, 1887. William P. and Charles F. both died before he did. Kate-Landrum-Robertson-Payne died in the fall of 1881 at an advanced age. The last account I had, William P. Robertson's widow, Sallie Moorman Robertson, was living. Araminta Nichols Robertson, wife of Charles F. R., died a short time before he did.

I saw in the Courier-Journal, of Sunday, July 11th, a notice asking for information in regard to the Robertson-Landrum families.

I will give as correctly as I know in regard to their families. James Landrum married Pinea Watkins, and was from Culpepper county, Va. He moved to Kentucky and purchased a large tract of land near the Falls of Rough. There were ten children, four sons and six daughters. The sons were Isham, Frank, James and Thomas. The daughters were Kate, Nancy, Sally, Henrietta, Pricillia and Emily. Isham Landrum married Miss Moore, Frank married Miss Jane Mason, James married Miss Caroline Blacklock, Thomas married Miss Elizabeth Field, of Ohio county, his second wife was Miss Julia Barbee, of Taylor county.

Kate Landrum, or as we loved to call her, Aunt Kitty, married Le Roy Robertson, Nancy married Ned Blacklock, Sally married Cisney Jackson, Henrietta married William O. Austin, Priscilla married Dr. Dennis. Emily married William O'Connor. Kate Landrum married Le Roy Robertson in Virginia, and in moving to Kentucky in company with her father's family, she and her husband located at Georgetown and lived there sometime, the writer does not know how long, but subsequently moved on a farm near her father's. Their children were W. P., Charles Frederick, Francis Podges, Harriet and Amanda. Kate Landrum-Robertson was left a widow. She married John Paine. There were four children, two sons and two daughters. One son, John Paine, is living near Fordsville; Thomas went West and was never heard from, Emily married Mr. R. Cox, of Breckinridge county. They were living at Vine Grove when they died. They have children there, some are living in Illinois. Margaret married Marion Humphrey; she died at Calhoon, McLean county, he died in Evansville. They left two children. One of Isham Landrum's daughters married Captain Piatt, and were living in St. Louis when last heard from. One of Frank Landrum's daughters married Henry Griffith, of Calhoon, McLean county; one married Thomas Felix of Ohio county, and her son is Frank L. Felix, publisher and proprietor of THE HARTFORD HERALD. Two married Davisons, two Harls, one Cummins and an only son, S. T. Landrum, who married a Robertson. James Landrum, Jr. had two sons. Henry died during the war, and was buried in Mississippi. He was an officer on a steamboat. Thomas died in Arkansas. Of the five daughters of James Landrum, Jr., one married Louis Moore, one Gus Moore, one Dr. Rose, one Clark, one Birk. Thomas Landrum had four children by his first wife, five by the last. Judge Ben Landrum, of Calhoon, is his son. Nancy Landrum-Blacklock died young, leaving two sons, Madison, who is still living in Ohio county. Edmond died in South Carrollton two years ago. Sallie Landrum-Jackson had six daughters and one son. One married Tichenor, one Robinson, one McCullough, one Grundy, one Riggs, one Jones. Henrietta Landrum-Austin had four children, one son and three daughters. Her two oldest daughters, Josephine and Emarilla married brothers, Benjamin and Joshua Fields, of Ohio county. Mary M. married James Skillern, of Morgantown, but now of Calhoon. Her son, H. M. Austin, died two years ago. Josephine is now the wife of Dr. J. S. Coleman, D.D.

Priscilla Landrum-Dennis had six children by her first husband, four sons and two daughters. Her son, Ridley, died in Hartford. Elisha and James died in Poplar Bluff, Mo. John J., the youngest son, is living in Mississippi. The two daughters are Mrs. Czarina McKee, who lives near Frankfort, Ky.

Mrs. Emma Johnson lives in Livermore, Ky. Mrs. Priscilla Dennis' second husband was Mr. Vantress. She had one son. Mrs. Emily O'Connor's daughter married Dr. Thomas Davis.

There are some mistakes in the Courier Journal's article. J. Allen Dean married the daughter of Dr. J. Hale, of Owensboro.

Preceding was followed by letter written 60 years ago from Reuben Landrum of Clark County, KY to his nephew, Thomas Landrum of Daviess County (later McLean County). Letter was dated 31 July 1837. In the letter the writer states that he is one of nine children, three now living, the others being Samuel & Elizabeth. His oldest brother, James (father of Thomas), the oldest child of his parents recently died; he had been informed of the death by a recent letter from his nephew Thomas Landrum. Reuben states that his great-grandfather, James Landrum , came from Scotland, and was born in the year 1703 and died 1788. His grandfather, Francis Landrum, was born in 1739 and died 1807 and was a Methodist minister for 31 years. His late brother, Francis Landrum, Jr., also served as a Methodist minister for 22 years.

08-04-1897 H3 - Letter from Mr. C. S. Robertson

Glendeane, Ky., July 31, 1897. To Editor Herald, Hartford, Ky.

Mr. Editor: I see the question asked in your paper if Kate Landrum married Le Roy Robertson. I answer no. Kate Landrum was my grandmother and lived the last years of her life here with my father, W. J. Robertson.

Her first husband was Rodger Robertson and they were married in Culpeper county, Virginia. My father was born August 22d, 1813, and his parents emigrated from Virginia when my father was six-weeks-old.

Kate Landrum had five children by her first husband. They were William J., Charles F., Francis Rodgers, Amanda and Emma.

My grandfather, Rodger Robertson, had one brother and two sisters. I do not know the names of the sisters but grandmother said they both died while young and that Le Roy was never heard of after the battle of New Orleans in the war of 1812.

Since grandma's death, we found an obituary of Mrs. Susan Robertson, of Mississippi, the wife of Royal Robertson, of Culpeper county, Virginia.

We wrote to try and find out something about the family but never heard anything from them. Yours respectfully, C. S. Robertson
